

ASTROGAZERS IRELAND

Armagh Planetarium is Northern Ireland's foremost institution for astronomy and space education.

As an important part of the Planetarium's ongoing educational programme, Astrogazers has been developed to offer help and support to schools and school astronomy clubs throughout the whole of Ireland.

Both students and teachers can benefit from joining Astrogazers. Our staff provide an in-depth knowledge base for you to use, whether you are, planning a visit to the Planetarium, designing a lesson plan or are completing a homework project.

Participating schools will have access to the latest information on astronomy and space science topics. We will also suggest useful publications which you may refer to, and you will receive immediate notification of upcoming events, competitions and promotions. Events for the International Year of Astronomy will take place in many centres during the course of 2009 and you may wish to become involved with or attend some of them.

To take part ask your teacher to e-mail their contact details to: astrogazers@armaghplanet.com.
